Financial situation of the banking sector for the first semester of 2022

During the first semester of 2022, the National Bank of Moldova (NBM) continued the process of prudential supervision of banks in the Republic of Moldova, pursuing compliance with legal requirements, to ensure the stability and viability of the banking system.

The banking sector, in the first semester of 2022, according to the data presented by the banks, was characterized by a high level of liquidity and increased assets, loans, own funds, and bank deposits. The profit of the financial year compared to the similar period of the previous year has increased, mainly because of the increase in interest and non-interest income.

At the same time, the volume of deposits of individuals and legal entities decreased as a result of withdrawals made in the first part of the year. There was also an increase in the absolute value of expired and non-performing loans and, as a result, a slight worsening of the quality indicators of the loan portfolio compared to the end of the previous year.

As of June 30, 2022, 11 banks licensed by the National Bank of Moldova were active in the Republic of Moldova. One bank was supervised under the early intervention regime applied on 11.01.2019. Following that, the NBM Executive Committee decided to extend the term of appointment of the temporary administrators until October 28, 2022. Currently, following the changes registered in the bank's shareholding structure, the management bodies are being completed.

Compliance with prudential requirements

During the first semester of 2022, banks continued to maintain their liquidity indicators at a high level, beyond the regulated limits.

Thus, the value of the long-term liquidity indicator (liquidity principle I) was 0.74 ( $\leq 1$  limit), ranging from 0.33 to 0.89, depending on the bank, and being practically at the same level as at the end of 2021.

Liquidity principle III, which represents the ratio between the adjusted actual liquidity and the required liquidity on each maturity band and which must not be less than 1 on each maturity band, has also been respected by all banks, ranging from 1.54, on the maturity band up to one month inclusive, to 95.2, on the maturity band between 6 and 12 months inclusive.

The liquidity coverage indicator by sector amounted to 223.7% (limit  $\geq 80\%$  - as of January 1, 2022), ranging from 139.2% to 519.3%, decreasing by 134.6 percentage points compared to the end of the previous year.

According to bank reports as of June 30, 2022, the ratio of total own funds in the banking sector stood at 29.3%, up 3.4

percentage points from the end of the previous year, and ranged between 22.1% and 63.4%. The indicator "total equity rate" (10%) was met by all banks.

Also, all banks complied with the requirements of the "Total equity rate" indicator, considering the capital buffers.

As of 30.06.2022, total own funds constituted 17.7 billion lei and registered an increase of 16.3% (2.5 billion lei). The increase in own funds was mainly determined by the reflection by the banks of the eligible profits after the holding of the general meetings of the shareholders and after obtaining the NBM's permission regarding the inclusion in the own funds of the profits made in 2021.

As of June 30, 2022, banks complied with prudential indicators regarding large exposures and exposures to their related parties.

Development of the national legislative framework and its harmonization with EU legislation

During the second quarter of 2022, in order to apply the provisions of Law No. 202/2017 on the activity of banks, a number of amendments have been carried out:

- The new edition of the Regulation on qualified holdings of banks has been approved, which includes provisions regarding qualified holdings of banks in the capital of companies, including the accepted limits for these holdings, and specifies a list of companies in the capital of which the bank may own qualified holdings, including exercising control over the company, as well as the procedure for obtaining prior approval issued by the NBM for qualified holdings;
- It has been approved the new edition of the Regulation on banks' investments in real estate (in force July 15, 2022), which aims to implement the provisions of Law 202/2017 on the activity of banks and align the terminology with the Basel III framework and the International Financial Reporting Standards;
- Regulation No. 240/2013 on banks' transactions with their related parties has been amended, aiming to revise certain provisions in order to remove deficiencies in the application and interpretation of the provisions of the Regulation within the bank's relations with their clients – related parties. Thus, the list of transactions with the related parties has been revised and completed in order to exclude those that will not be considered transactions with the related parties because, according to their nature, they represent intermediary services provided by banks and/or are transactions/operations resulting from transactions/contractual obligations concluded with related parties.

At the same time, the cumulation of the transaction value of the related party with the bank (which forms the exposure) with the value of the transactions of customers connected with the related parties with the bank was included, with the aim of determining the threshold in the process of approving the transaction, starting from the fact that such connections lead to the assumption of a common risk.

Also, the rules that provide for the exemptions from the prior approval of transactions with related parties by the bank's management bodies have been completed or established.
