Monetary indicators in November 2017

In November 2017, monetary base increased by MDL 311.8 million (0.8 percent) compared to the previous month, and totaled MDL 37,414.9 million. The growth of the monetary base was determined by the increase of its counterparts: net foreign assets, which increased by MDL 84.0 million (0.2 percent), and net domestic assets - increased by MDL 227.8 million (5.6 percent).

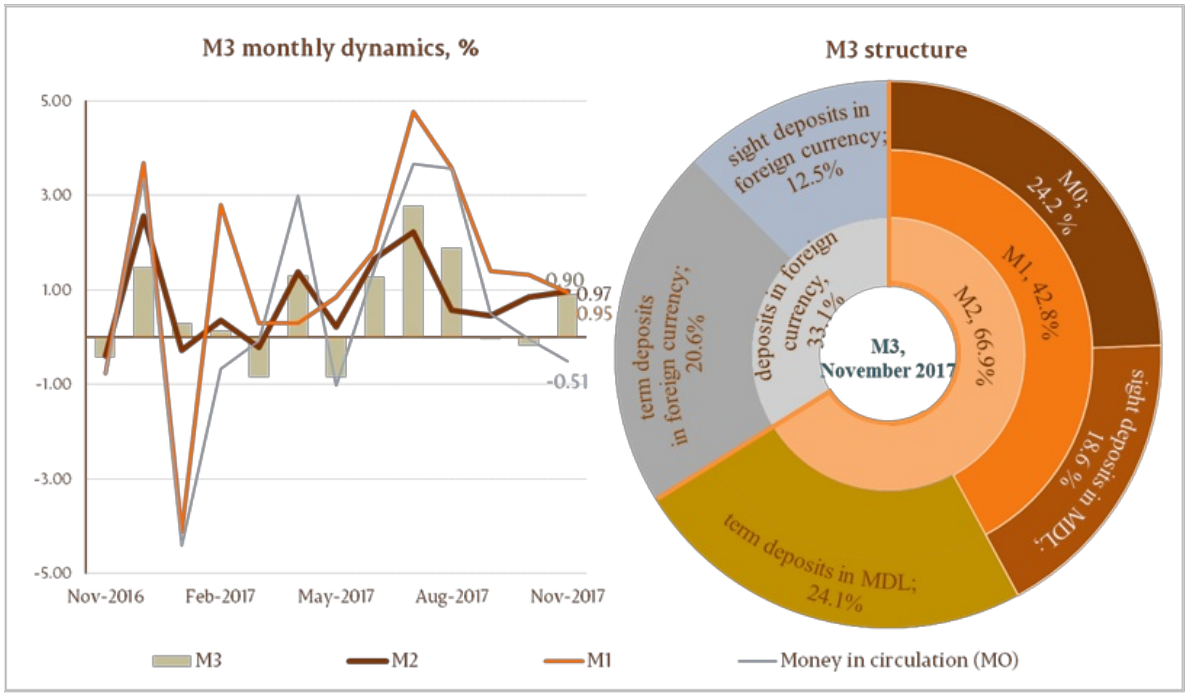

Money supply M2 increased by MDL 482.9 million, or by 1.0 percent compared to October 2017, and amounted to MDL 50,372.0 million, having increased by 11.3 percent compared to the same period of the previous year.

Money supply M3 increased by MDL 668.9 million (by 0.9 percent), that is by 8.3 percentage points higher than in November 2016.

The analysis of the Money supply components (M3) shows that its increase over November 2017 was driven by the increase in total deposit balance, by MDL 762.0 million, while the monetary aggregate money in circulation (M0) has decreased by MDL 93.1 million (Chart 1)

It should be mentioned that Money in circulation (M0) and Money supply (M1) increased compared to November 2016 by 8.8 and 18.8 percentage points, respectively.
