Message by Mr Octavian Armașu, Governor of the National Bank of Moldova, on the occasion of the Independence Day of the Republic of Moldova

Dear fellow citizens,

On 27 August, the Republic of Moldova marks 31 years of independence. It is an event with a special significance, a crucial historical moment, which created opportunities and premises for the development of a sovereign and democratic state.

We are grateful to those who had the courage and fought so that we can live in freedom and express our own opinions.

This day is a good opportunity for evaluating the successes achieved and drawing development paths and identifying new objectives.

During the period of independence of the Republic of Moldova and operation of the domestic banking system, we had to learn hard lessons and accumulated knowledge and experience, as difficulties tested our strength of resistance.

Today, we are in a continuous reform of the banking system, which we will achieve with tenacity and responsibility. Each of us, through their contribution, can help building a strong, transparent and competitive banking system, thus supporting the economy of the Republic of Moldova.

On Independence Day, the national day of the Republic of Moldova, I am honoured to send you sincere congratulations, good wishes, prosperity and peace.

Happy Independence Day!
